Government Bill

As reported from the Primary Production Committee

Commentary

Recommendation

The committee has examined the Animal Welfare Amendment Bill and recommends that it be passed with the amendments shown.

Introduction

The bill seeks to make changes to the Animal Welfare Act 1999, to improve the enforceability, clarity, and transparency of New Zealand's animal welfare system. The bill would implement the Government's decisions resulting from a 2011–2012 review of the Act, but does not seek to alter appropriate fundamental principles and policy settings.

The proposed amendments to the Act seek to provide for clear and enforceable standards of welfare for animals, including live animals for export; increase the range of enforcement tools for small to medium-scale offending; clarify the obligations of animal-owners; make decision-making under the Act more transparent; and allow welfare standards to evolve with societal expectations.

The bill also provides guidance to the courts for considering the imposition of court orders, ordering the forfeiture of animals, or disqualification from owning or being in charge of animals.

Our commentary covers the main amendments we recommend to the bill.

Animal sentience

Although the concept of animal sentience is commonly accepted in New Zealand, we recommend inserting new clause 3A to make it clear that animals are sentient beings.

Animal manipulation

We are aware of widespread concern about "manipulation" of animals; that is, the killing of animals for research, testing and teaching purposes. In particular, there is concern about oversight and transparency in this area. The bill seeks to address these concerns by amending the definition of "manipulation" and requiring the approval of an animal ethics committee to kill an animal for such purposes, or to breed an animal that may be at risk of increased suffering. We acknowledge however, that this requirement may cause unnecessary delay, if for example there is an urgent need for a national biosecurity response. To avoid this, we recommend inserting new clause 5(2A), which would insert new sub-sections 2(A), 2(B) and 2(C) in section 3 of the Act to provide for exemption from the requirement to seek approval in such circumstances.

Significant surgical procedures

Interest from our trading partners in the animal welfare aspects of on-farm animal management practices places New Zealand at some risk if these practices are not appropriately regulated. Clarifying the operation of the law as to what constitutes a "significant surgical procedure", and therefore can only be carried out by a vet, will be an important component of any assurances sought in this area. However, we recognise concern that defining the term too narrowly could result in some procedures routinely carried out by farmers becoming unnecessarily restricted to vets. The bill as introduced gives no guidance on this matter. We recommend inserting new clause 13 Section 16 to clarify the definition of the term "significant surgical procedure" and to specify a set of criteria against which various procedures can be evaluated. We also recommend inserting new clause 56 183B(2) to enable the minister to make regulations as to how such procedures should be managed, or to decide whether or not certain procedures are to be treated as significant.

Export of live animals for slaughter

We acknowledge the widespread sentiment that the export of live animals for slaughter should be prohibited. We recognise that there are animal welfare, trade, and reputational risks associated with the export of live animals, if post-arrival conditions for the animals are inadequate, or animals are prevented from being unloaded. However, a ban on this trade would be inconsistent with New Zealand's obligations to the World Trade Organisation and would risk being challenged.

While the existing regulatory framework allows these risks to be managed, we believe it important that it be strengthened. We recommend amending clause 21 by inserting new section 43(2), to enhance the Director General's ability to take into consideration various relevant factors before issuing an export certificate. We also recommend amending clause 22 by replacing the amendment to section 45(1) with provisions to require an exporter to provide feedback to the Director General about the management and welfare of animals during the journey and for a specified period after their arrival.

Change or cancellation of compliance notice

The bill provides for applications to the Director General to change or cancel a compliance notice. The bill as introduced specifies no time limit for a response. We recommend amending clause 44, new section 156(E)(2)(a) to specify a time limit of 10 days for a response from the Director General to such an application.

Transitional provisions

The bill as introduced would allow the making of regulations to prescribe standards and requirements relating to animal care during transition periods, which might be up to 10 years. We are concerned that this could allow a Minister to extend this period by further regulation, thus allowing non-compliant practices to continue for an unreasonably long time. We recommend inserting into clause 56 new section 183A(4C), limiting the ability to extend transitional regulations to once only, for up to an additional five years, and only if the industry as a whole has demonstrated commitment to the transition, and the Minister is satisfied that most producers have made significant progress towards becoming compliant, and will do so within the extended period.

Greyhound racing

We are aware of widespread concern about the transparency and accountability of the greyhound racing industry and the treatment of dogs. We note however that most of the issues raised relate to the ethics of the greyhound racing industry in general and are not limited to animal welfare. Cruelty and the welfare of the dogs are already addressed by the Act, and the existing Dogs' Code of Welfare also applies. We do not therefore recommend amending this bill to specifically address these concerns.

Cetaceans in captivity

We recognise the concern in the community about the plight of cetaceans in captivity. There are no cetaceans in captivity in New Zealand at present, and the issue is addressed in the Marine Mammals Protection Act 1978. We feel that any application to hold cetaceans in captivity in New Zealand, unless it was essential for the conservation management of the species, is unlikely to be granted, and therefore we do not recommend amending this bill to specifically address this concern.

Green Party minority view

The Green Party acknowledges that this bill contains some improvements to current animal welfare law. However we are extremely disappointed that animal testing has not been addressed at all by the Committee despite it being an area of significant public concern due to the extremely high levels of pain and suffering involved in these tests and despite thousands of submissions seeking amendments to this section of the Act.

The Green Party has put up two simple amendments to the animal testing provisions of the Act which we would like to see incorporated in order to support the bill. The first amends the Act to ban animal testing of cosmetics in New Zealand in line with recent developments overseas. The second requires alternatives to animal testing to be used where there are suitable alternatives.

There is extremely strong public support for a ban on any animal testing of cosmetics and a large number of submissions were received in favour of including this amendment. A recent Horizon poll has revealed that 89% of New Zealanders are against animal testing for cosmetics and 89.2% want to see it ruled out in this country.

Requiring animal ethics committees to only allow animal tests to be undertaken when there are no suitable alternatives available is essential if we are to reduce the number of animals being subject to painful experiments and testing. Currently, animal ethics committees are not even required to consider alternatives to animal tests. In our view, it is extremely disappointing that the Committee has not chosen to endorse either of these two proposals aimed at reducing the number of animals used in research and testing.

The Green Party is also concerned that this bill will not result in meaningful welfare improvements for animals used in intensive factory farming; especially for layer hens, meat chickens, and intensively farmed pigs. Colony cages have been deemed to be compliant with the welfare requirements of the Act despite the fact that most people do not see these as resulting in meaningful improvements in the quality of life experienced by hens in factory farms. Nothing in this bill addresses that situation. We are also concerned that 15 years is an extremely long time to phase out existing practices that are clearly not compliant with the requirements of the Act, such as farrowing crates.

Appendix

Committee process

The Animal Welfare Amendment Bill was referred to the committee on 29 August 2013. The closing date for submissions was 4 October 2013. We received and considered 4,136 submissions from interested groups and individuals. We heard 30 submissions in Wellington and 17 submissions in Auckland.

We received advice from the Ministry for Primary Industries. The Regulations Review Committee reported to us on the powers contained in clauses 2, 8, 10, 12–14 and 56 (new section 183B).

- establishing any minimum standard that could be established under Part 5, or amending, revoking, or replacing any minimum standard or any part of a minimum standard established under Part 5.

- "(2) Regulations made under this section may (without limitation) Without limiting the generality of subsection (1), regulations made under this section may prescribe standards or requirements that do not fully meet—
 - "(a) the obligations of section 10 or 11; or
 - "(b) the obligations that a person would need to observe in the treatment, transport, or killing of animals if that person were to avoid committing an offence against section 12(c), 21(b), 22(2), 23(1), 23(2), or 29(a).
- "(3) Regulations made in reliance on subsection (2) may only be made for any specified period, or series of specified periods, that is necessary to enable a transition from current practice to new practice.
- "(4) The Minister must not recommend the making of regulations in reliance on subsection (2) unless he or she is satisfied that 1: all or anyeither or both of the following apply:
 - "(a) any adverse effects of a change from current practices to new practices have been considered and there are no feasible or practical alternatives currently available:
 - "(b) not to do so would result in an unreasonable impact on 20 religious or cultural practices:
 - "(c) not to do so would result in an unreasonable impact on a particular industry sector within New Zealand, a sector of the public, or New Zealand's wider economy.
- reasonable under subsection (4)(c), the Minister must have regard to the welfare of any affected animals.
- "(4B) Any regulations made in reliance on subsection (2) in accordance with the considerations in subsection (4) must provide for the regulations to be in force for a period of time specified in the regulations (the specified period) that—
 - "(a) is reasonably necessary to enable a transition from current practice to a practice that fully meets the obligations specified in subsection (2)(a) and (b); and
 - "(b) does not exceed 10 years (which period may, however, 35 be extended once under subsection (4C)).
- "(4C) The specified period may be extended once only by up to 5 years by regulations made under this subsection on the recom-

- mendation of the Minister if he or she is satisfied that the majority of participants in the sector concerned—
- "(a) have made significant progress towards implementing compliant practice; and
- (b) cannot reasonably be expected to become compliant before the close of the specified period, taking into account the steps that still need to be completed for implementation of compliant practice; and
- "(c) will become compliant within the extended period.
- "(5) If, after considering subsections (3) and (4), the Minister considers that a transition to a new practice is not feasible, the Minister may (despite subsection (3)) Despite subsections (4) to (4C), if the Minister considers that requiring a practice to fully meet the obligations specified in subsection (2)(a) and (b) would impose an unjustifiable limitation on the requirements of a religious or cultural practice, the Minister may recommend the making of regulations in reliance on subsection (2) for an indefinite period subject to review at 10-yearly intervals or shorter intervals specified in the regulations.
- the making of regulations in reliance on subsection (2), the Minister may have regard to whether the regulations would be in consider any factors that the Minister thinks would make such regulations contrary to New Zealand's overall interests (including, without limitation, health, social, economic, international, or environmental interests).
- "(7) Nothing in this section obliges the Minister to recommend the making of regulations in reliance on subsection (2).
- "(8) The Minister must consult the National Animal Welfare Advisory Committee before recommending the making of any regulations under this section (other than regulations already proposed by the Committee), but nothing in sections 71 to 75 applies in relation to the making of regulations under subsection (1)(b).
- "(9) If a person does or omits to do anything in reliance on regulations made under subsection (2) that would otherwise be a contravention of, or failure to comply with, any provision of Part 1 or 2, the person has a defence to a prosecution for an offence under this Act in respect of the act or omission if the court is satisfied that the act or omission was authorised by the regulations.

"183B Regulations relating to surgical and painful procedures

- "(1) The Governor-General may, on the recommendation of the Minister, by Order in Council, make regulations for all or any 5 of the following purposes:
 - "(a) prohibiting specified surgical procedures or painful procedures from being performed on animals:
 - "(b) prescribing requirements in relation to the performance of specified surgical or painful procedures on animals, including (without limitation) regulations that prescribe—

l	Interpretation In this schedule, amendment Act means the Animal Welfare Amendment Act 2013.	5
2 (1)	Codes of welfare Every code of welfare in force at the commencement of this schedule continues in force and, after that commencement, may be amended, reviewed, revoked, or replaced under this Act.	10
(2)	The defences available under sections 13(2), 24(2), and 30(2) in relation to a code continued by subclause (1) that (in reliance on section 73(3)) does not fully meet any obligations described in subclause (3) continue to apply to the acts and omissions of any person charged with committing a relevant offence at any time while the code remains in force.	15
(3) ·	 (a) the obligations of section 10 or 11; or (b) the obligations that a person would need to observe in the treatment, transport, or killing of animals if that person were to avoid committing an offence against section 12(c), 21(1)(b), 22(2), 23(1), 23(2), or 29(a). 	20
(4)	The references in subclauses (2) and (3) to sections of this Act must be read as references to those sections as they read when the code concerned was issued.	25
(5)	If the National Animal Welfare Advisory Committee has publicly notified a draft code of welfare under section 71 before the commencement of this schedule and the code has not been issued before that commencement, the Committee need not include in the draft any recommendation for the making of regulations under this Act.	30
