

European Union Free Trade Agreement Legislation Amendment Bill

Government Bill

Explanatory note

General policy statement

The European Union Free Trade Agreement Legislation Amendment Bill (the Bill) is an omnibus Bill introduced in accordance with Standing Order 267(1)(a). The amendments deal with an interrelated topic that can be regarded as implementing a single broad policy.

The Bill amends New Zealand law as part of the implementation of the Free Trade Agreement between New Zealand and the European Union (the EU), signed in Brussels on 9 July 2023 (the EU FTA).

Most of the obligations in the EU FTA will be met by New Zealand's existing domestic legal and policy regime. However, legislative and regulatory amendments will be required to align New Zealand's domestic law with certain obligations in the EU FTA and thereby enable New Zealand to ratify the EU FTA. The Bill introduces amendments to the following:

- the Consumer Information Standards (Country of Origin (Clothing and Footwear) Labelling) Regulations 1992, to allow goods from a Member State of the EU to be labelled as “Made in the EU” or, alternatively, as made in that Member State; and
- the Dairy Industry Restructuring Act 2001, to bring additional and revised dairy quotas under the existing quota management system; and
- the Geographical Indications (Wine and Spirits) Registration Act 2006, to protect geographical indications from the EU in New Zealand, including enforcement measures; and
- the Overseas Investment Act 2005 and the Overseas Investment Regulations 2005, to increase from $100 million to $200 million the monetary threshold above which consent is required for investments by EU non-government investors in “significant business assets” in New Zealand; and

- the Tariff Act 1988, to provide for the bilateral safeguard mechanism under chapter 5 of the EU FTA (Trade Remedies); and
- the New Zealand Tariff, to enable the application of the preferential tariff rates agreed in the EU FTA and to implement obligations relating to the tariff treatment of goods returned after repair or alteration; and
- the Customs and Excise Regulations 1996, to implement the agreed rules of origin and product-specific rules of origin for goods imported from the EU.

There are certain copyright-related obligations in the EU FTA that have a transition period for implementation. New Zealand has agreed that it will, within 4 years of the EU FTA entering into force, amend the Copyright Act 1994 to—

- (a) extend copyright and related rights terms of protection by 20 years; and
- (b) prohibit the act of unauthorised circumvention of technological protection measures (TPMs), otherwise known as “digital locks”; and
- (c) extend existing protections for TPMs to include access-control TPMs.

New Zealand has also agreed to implement a visual artist resale royalty regime within 2 years of the EU FTA entering into force. This obligation is being met through the implementation of the Resale Right for Visual Artists Act 2023.

Departmental disclosure statement

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade is required to prepare a disclosure statement to assist with the scrutiny of this Bill. The disclosure statement provides access to information about the policy development of the Bill and identifies any significant or unusual legislative features of the Bill.

National interest analysis

A national interest analysis has been prepared that takes the place of a regulatory impact statement. The Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade produced a national interest analysis on 20 July 2023 to help inform the main policy decisions taken by the Government relating to the contents of this Bill. The national interest analysis was presented to the House of Representatives on 20 July 2023 in accordance with Standing Order 405(2) (presentation and referral of treaties).

Clause by clause analysis

Clause 1 is the Title clause.

Clause 2 provides for the Bill to commence on a date set by an Order in Council. Commencement by Order in Council is necessary because commencement depends on the date that the Free Trade Agreement between New Zealand and the European Union signed in Brussels on 9 July 2023 (the EU FTA) will enter into force, which has not yet been decided.

Part 1

Amendments to Consumer Information Standards (Country of Origin (Clothing and Footwear) Labelling) Regulations 1992

Part 1 amends the Consumer Information Standards (Country of Origin (Clothing and Footwear) Labelling) Regulations 1992 (the principal regulations).

Clause 4 amends regulation 3 of the principal regulations to permit the supplier of an article of clothing or footwear that was made or produced in the European Union (the EU) to label or mark it as such, rather than as being made or produced in the specific country of origin.

Part 2

Amendments to Dairy Industry Restructuring Act 2001

Part 2 amends the Dairy Industry Restructuring Act 2001.

Part 2 amends Schedule 5A to insert new tariff quotas agreed under the EU FTA to amend existing EU World Trade Organization tariff quotas in relation to butter and cheese.

Clause 12 inserts new section 26B, which provides that, if the EU FTA comes into force on a day other than 1 January, the EU FTA tariff quotas are to be applied on a pro rata basis for the first year.

Part 2 also updates references to European Communities to references to the European Union and repeals spent provisions and definitions relating to the implementation of tariff quotas during the (now expired) initial and interim periods after enactment of the Dairy Industry Restructuring Act 2001.

Part 3

Amendments to Act previously called Geographical Indications (Wine and Spirits) Registration Act 2006

Part 3 amends the Geographical Indications (Wine and Spirits) Registration Act 2006 (the Act).

Part 3 amends the Act to provide for the registration of European Union geographical indications agreed to be protected in New Zealand under the EU FTA (EU FTA geographical indications). Part 3 also inserts provisions for the enforcement of geographical indications, and those provisions will apply to both EU FTA geographical indications and geographical indications registered under other provisions of the Act (New Zealand and foreign geographical indications).

Clause 21 changes the Title of the Act to the Geographical Indications Registration Act 2006.

Clauses 22 to 83 amend the Act to accommodate new provisions applying to EU FTA geographical indications. The amendments do the following things:

- consequentially amend the purpose provision and various definitions to reflect the changes relating to the registration of EU FTA geographical indications and enforcement of all registered geographical indications:
- limit provisions in the Act, including provisions about registration and restrictions on use, so that they apply only to New Zealand and foreign geographical indications:
- insert new section 17A to make the restrictions on registration of New Zealand and foreign geographical indications consistent with the restrictions imposed on registration of EU FTA geographical indications:
- amend section 25 of the Act for consistency with new section 73 in respect of EU FTA geographical indications:
- repeal section 27 of the Act so that the restrictions on use of a New Zealand or foreign geographical indication apply to a wine or spirit in New Zealand despite it being in transit. EU FTA geographical indications in respect of goods in transit in New Zealand are to be treated the same way:
- repeal section 33 of the Act, which provides that a breach of a restriction on use of a registered geographical indication is a breach of section 9 of the Fair Trading Act 1986. This section is removed because enforcement is provided for by new Part 5, which will apply to all types of registered geographical indications. The repeal of section 33 is not intended to prevent a person from pursuing a breach of a restriction on use under section 9 of the Fair Trading Act 1986 by proving conduct that is misleading or deceptive or is likely to mislead or deceive:
- repeal sections 34 to 35A, 39, 40, and 48 to 52 of the Act, which relate to the Registrar of Geographical Indications (the Registrar), because equivalent provisions are included in new Part 6 in respect of all geographical indications:

- repeal section 39A of the Act, which requires the advisory committee appointed under the Trade Marks Act 2002 to advise on whether the registration of a geographical indication is or is likely to be offensive to Māori. An equivalent provision is included in new Part 6 that is to apply in respect of all geographical indications:
- amend section 45 of the Act to provide that a New Zealand or foreign geographical indication may be removed from the register by the court, as well as the Registrar:
- insert new sections 47E to 47G, which replace sections 57C to 57E of the Act so that the provisions only apply in respect of New Zealand and foreign geographical indications:
- make minor and technical changes consequential on the inclusion of the new provisions about EU FTA geographical indications and to reflect modern drafting practice.

Clause 84 repeals sections 57 to 64 of the Act and inserts new Parts 4 to 6.

New Part 4 implements EU FTA obligations by establishing a regime for the protection of EU FTA geographical indications. The Part imposes the following main requirements:

- if the EU requests protection for an EU FTA geographical indication or a change to the registration of an EU FTA geographical indication, the geographical indication must not be registered or the change made unless the Registrar has, in accordance with regulations, given public notice of the proposed registration or change, given interested persons an opportunity to oppose the registration or change, and examined it against the restrictions on registration in the Act (new sections 57 and 58). See clause 2 of new Schedule 1 for a transitional provision concerning the registration of EU FTA geographical indications listed in Section A of Annex 18-B of the EU FTA (the Annex) on commencement:
- an EU FTA registered geographical indication is deemed to be registered on and after the date on which the Registrar gives public notice of its proposed registration (new section 59):
- an EU FTA registered geographical indication remains registered unless it is removed from the register. A geographical indication that is removed from the Annex must be removed from the register (new sections 60 and 61):
- there are restrictions on registration of EU FTA geographical indications similar to the restrictions on registration of New Zealand and foreign geographical indications. The Registrar may register a homonymous or partially homonymous geographical indication subject to conditions (new sections 62 to 72):
- a person is not permitted to use an EU FTA registered geographical indication for a good, in trade, unless the good meets the product specification of the good that is the subject of the geographical indication. The product specification in relation to a good is the requirements approved by the EU for use of the geographical indication in marketing the good (new section 73). Summaries of those requirements for different geographical indications, commonly known as technical files, can be found at <https://www.tmdn.org/giview/>:

- some exceptions apply to the restriction on use of an EU FTA registered geographical indication in trade (new sections 74 to 78)
- sections 62 to 64 of the Act are repealed without replacement because they are spent.

New Part 5 provides new enforcement provisions applicable to all registered geographical indications.

New subpart 1 provides for the appointment of GI officers to exercise the enforcement powers in new subparts 2 and 3. The chief executive may also perform and exercise all the functions, duties, and powers of a GI officer under the Bill.

In new subpart 2, new sections 85 to 100 set out enforcement powers. These include the power to—

- question and require information to monitor compliance with restrictions on use or investigate a suspected breach of a restriction on use:
- enter and inspect a place involved in the trading of the kinds of goods to which restrictions on use may apply:
- apply for and execute a search warrant where the officer believes there is a breach of a restriction on use:
- issue a notice of direction where an officer is satisfied that a person has breached a restriction on use.

In new subpart 2, new sections 101 to 105 provide for the sharing of information between agencies in New Zealand and also between the chief executive and a person in an overseas country. The sharing of information between agencies in New Zealand must be necessary or desirable to promote the enforcement of the Bill or legislation administered by one of the agencies. The sharing of information with an overseas person must be under an agreement with the chief executive and the overseas person. The chief executive must be satisfied that the agreement is necessary for the purposes set out in new section 104(2)(b).

In new subpart 3, new sections 106 to 119 provide for civil proceedings in the High Court to enforce a restriction on use. The remedies include damages, account of profits, order for erasure of the offending geographical indication, and orders for disposal of infringing goods, infringing material, or an infringing object. It is not intended that these new provisions for civil enforcement limit or affect the law of passing off, the ability to enforce a trade mark under subpart 1 of Part 4 of the Trade Marks Act 2002, or the ability to pursue misleading or deceptive conduct under section 9 of the Fair Trading Act 1986.

In new subpart 3, new section 120 sets out an infringement offence for failing to comply with a notice of direction.

In new subpart 3, new sections 121 to 127 set out the procedure for infringement offences under the Act.

In new subpart 3, new sections 128 and 129 set out offences against the Bill. These relate to hindering or obstructing a GI officer, and providing documents or information knowing them to be false or misleading.

In new subpart 4, new sections 130 to 154 provide a regime administered by Customs that provides for goods that are suspected of being infringing goods to be temporarily detained at the border, by extending the existing border regime for trade marks to include geographical indications. Features of the regime include the following:

- Customs may detain suspected infringing goods that are in the control of Customs, without a request having been made (new section 131):
- a person may request Customs to detain infringing goods if they claim that they have an interest in the use of a geographical indication that is registered in respect of the goods (new section 133). If so, Customs may request that the person give security or an indemnity to Customs (new section 135):
- the importer or exporter of goods that are detained by Customs may consent to the goods being forfeited to the Crown. If so, the goods must be sold, destroyed, or otherwise disposed of in the manner that the chief executive of Customs directs, but only after they have had regard to the need to ensure that the step to be taken does not adversely affect the person that has requested the detention of the goods (new section 149):
- the court may order the destruction or disposal of infringing goods (new section 152).

New subpart 5, new section 155, contains an immunity provision.

New Part 6 sets out general provisions. They include equivalents of provisions that currently apply only to New Zealand and foreign geographical indications.

In summary,—

- new section 156 empowers the making of regulations for the purposes of the Act. It is the equivalent of section 57 of the Act. The main changes are as follows:
 - 2 paragraphs have been removed because their content is covered by other provisions in the Act:
 - new paragraph (i) provides for penalties to be prescribed for the new infringement offences:
 - new paragraphs (l) and (m) reflect modern drafting style:
- new sections 157 to 160 relate to the Registrar's powers, and so replace sections 34 to 35A and 40 of the Act:
- new sections 161 to 163 are about the register of geographical indications. They replace sections 42 to 44 of the Act but are extended to cover EU FTA geographical indications and to modernise administrative requirements for maintaining the register:

- new sections 164 to 168 relate to appeals regarding decisions of the Registrar, and so replace sections 48 to 52 of the Act:
- new section 169 makes it clear that the Registrar may obtain advice and consult on various matters in respect of geographical indications. It replaces section 39 of the Act:
- new section 170 is about the committee required to advise the Registrar on whether the use or registration of a geographical indication is offensive to Māori. It replaces section 39A of the Act and includes reference to goods other than wine and spirits to cover EU FTA geographical indications:
- new sections 171 to 176 replace sections 57A to 61 of the Act. These provisions cover miscellaneous matters and continue to provide that the Act does not limit the Fair Trading Act 1986.

Clause 85 replaces the Schedule of the Act with new Schedules 1 and 2 set out in Schedule 1.

New Schedule 1 sets out transitional provisions.

Clause 1 of new Schedule 1 deals with the change in Title of the principal Act.

Clause 2 of new Schedule 1 provides that the Registrar must register EU FTA geographical indications listed in Section A of the Annex as soon as practicable after the amendments to the Act come into force and all requirements in Section A of the Annex, including transitional provisions, apply to the geographical indications once they are registered. This means that some geographical indications may continue to be used if the requirements in the relevant transitional provision are met. For example, the Annex includes a transitional provision for feta cheese, which allows certain existing users of that geographical indication to continue using it for a maximum period of 9 years after the entry into force of the EU FTA. In contrast, transitional provisions cannot be imposed in respect of geographical indications registered under new section 57.

Clause 3 of new Schedule 1 provides that a geographical indication registered as a foreign registered geographical indication before commencement of the EU FTA must also be registered as an EU FTA registered geographical indication if it meets the requirements for registration in the Act. Champagne is an example of a geographical indication that is registered as a foreign registered geographical indication. It is also listed in Section A of the Annex. Consequently, it must be registered as an EU FTA geographical indication under clause 2 of new Schedule 1, despite already being registered as a foreign geographical indication.

Clause 4 of new Schedule 1 allows regulations to be made for transitional or savings matters concerning the coming into force of the amendments to the Act. The regulations may override, or add to, provisions in the Act. However, any transitional regulations made will be revoked 5 years after the clause comes into force.

New Schedule 2 sets out provisions relating to reviews and appeals.

Clause 86 makes consequential amendments to other Acts as set out in Schedule 2.

The amendments to other Acts include—

- amending section 20 of the Trade Marks Act 2002, which provides that a trade mark must not be registered in certain circumstances when a registered geographical indication already exists. The section is amended so that it covers EU FTA registered geographical indications;
- inserting new sections 195A and 195B into the Trade Marks Act 2002 so that fees payable to the Commissioner of Trade Marks in respect of trade marks (including before the commencement of the amendments) may be used to recover costs of the Registrar of Geographical Indications.

Part 4

Amendments to Overseas Investment Act 2005 and Overseas Investment Regulations 2005

Part 4 amends the Overseas Investment Act 2005 and the Overseas Investment Regulations 2005.

Subpart 1—Amendments to Overseas Investment Act 2005

Subpart 1 of Part 4 amends the Overseas Investment Act 2005 to add the EU FTA to the list of agreements that may be implemented by regulations to be made under section 61A of the Overseas Investment Act 2005. That section provides for regulations regarding alternative monetary thresholds for overseas investments in significant business assets. The standard threshold is $100 million, before consent is needed for an overseas investment. Section 13 of the Act envisages increased monetary thresholds for investors from certain countries to whom regulations under section 61A apply.

In addition, subpart 1 of Part 4 inserts a reference to the Pacific Agreement on Closer Economic Relations Plus into section 61A (to implement the most-favoured-nation obligation in that agreement).

Subpart 1 of Part 4 also removes a reference to the Trans-Pacific Strategic Economic Partnership Agreement from section 61A. Reference to that agreement has become obsolete since Brunei Darussalam became a party to the Comprehensive and Progressive Agreement for Trans-Pacific Partnership on 12 July 2023.

Subpart 2—Amendments to Overseas Investment Regulations 2005

Subpart 2 of Part 4 amends the Overseas Investment Regulations 2005 to add the European Union to the group of countries for which the increased monetary threshold of $200 million applies.

Subpart 2 of Part 4 also provides for transitional provisions. Clause 93 inserts new Part 11 into Schedule 1AA of the Overseas Investment Regulations 2005, which provides that the amendments made by this Bill apply only to the acquisition of property or establishment of a business after the commencement of this Bill. New Part 11 also provides that no person is entitled to a refund of any fee or charge paid under Schedule 2 of the Overseas Investment Regulations 2005 on the ground that the amendments made by this Bill mean that the matter is longer relevant (for example, that a consent that had been applied for is no longer required).

Part 5

Amendments to Tariff Act 1988, Tariff, and Customs and Excise Regulations 1996

Part 5 amends the Tariff Act 1988, the Tariff, and the Customs and Excise Regulations 1996.

Subpart 1—Amendments to Tariff Act 1988

Clauses 95 to 99 amend the Tariff Act 1988.

Clauses 95 to 97 amend sections 2, 7, and 9 of the Tariff Act 1988 to make it clear that a group of countries, like the EU, can be given preferential treatment under the Tariff in the same way as an individual country.

Clause 98 amends the definition of free trade agreement in section 15A by adding the EU FTA to the list of agreements in that definition.

Clause 99 amends section 15H by adding the EU FTA to the list of free trade agreements under which the Minister may determine that there are grounds for applying a provisional transitional safeguard measure.

Clause 101 consequentially amends the Trade (Safeguard Measures) Act 2014 to ensure that, in describing New Zealand's other trade remedies, it is clear that transitional safeguard measures imposed under the Tariff Act 1988 may apply in relation to imports from a group of countries.

Subpart 2—Amendments to Tariff

Subpart 2 of Part 5 amends the Tariff to provide for preferential tariff entry and concessionary entry of goods from the EU FTA group (composed of the EU, Andorra, Monaco, San Marino, and the Sovereign Base Areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia).

Subpart 3—Amendment to Customs and Excise Regulations 1996

Subpart 3 of Part 5 amends the Customs and Excise Regulations 1996.

Clause 108 inserts new regulations 51ZZM and 51ZZN, which prescribe when particular goods are treated as being the produce or manufacture of the EU FTA group for the purpose of the Customs and Excise Act 2018 and the Tariff Act 1988.

Schedule 1 sets out 2 schedules inserted by clause 85 into the Act previously called the Geographical Indications (Wine and Spirits) Registration Act 2006.

Schedule 2 sets out consequential amendments to Acts, which are made by clause 86.

Schedule 3 sets out new Part 11 of Schedule 1AA of the Overseas Investment Regulations 2005, as inserted by clause 93.
