28 New section 141A inserted (Evidence of capability of automated infringement system)

Before section 142, insert:

141A Evidence of ongoing capability of automated infringement system

- (1) In proceedings relating to an infringement offence verified by an automated infringement system, the production of a certificate (or a document purporting to be a copy of the certificate) purporting to be signed by a person authorised for the purpose by the Agency, as to the capability of the automated infringement system referred to in the certificate, is, in the absence of proof to the contrary, sufficient proof that—
- (a) the system had, within the preceding 12 months, undergone a quality assurance process as required by section 139AAC; and
 - (b) the system was verifying the matters set out in section 139AAA(1); and
 - (c) the system was being operated in a way that collects, holds, uses, and discloses personal information in accordance with the Privacy Act 2020.
- (2) A certificate under subsection (1)—
- (a) must be, or have been, current on the date of the alleged offence; and

- (b) is not valid if it was given more than 12 months before the date of the alleged offence.
- (3) In any proceedings where a certificate has been produced under this section, the court may, on application made not less than 14 days before the hearing of the charge concerned, and if satisfied that there is good cause to do so, set aside the certificate and require the capability of the automated infringement system to be established by evidence other than the certificate.

30 New sections 146A to 146E inserted

After section 146, insert:

146A Average speed treated as actual speed

- (1) In proceedings against a person for a speeding offence, the average speed of the relevant vehicle between 2 detection points on a road calculated by a point-to-point average speed system must, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be treated as being the speed at which the vehicle was actually travelling between those 2 detection points.
- (2) The average speed of a vehicle between 2 detection points on a road is to be calculated using the following formula (and expressed in kilometres per hour rounded down to the next whole number):

$$(d \times 3.6) \div t$$

where—

- d is the surveyed distance (expressed in metres and rounded down to the next whole number)
- t is the period (expressed in seconds) between the time when the vehicle passes the first detection point and the time when it passes the second detection point.
- (3) In this section and sections 146B to 146D, unless the context otherwise requires,— data, in relation to a speeding offence detected by a point-to-point average speed system, means any form of data (including electronic images or a sequence of electronic images) about any 1 or more of the following:

- (a) the time of any event recorded (including the time a vehicle passed a detection point):
- (b) the position of a vehicle on a road at any given time:
- (c) the direction in which a vehicle is moving:
- (d) the characters on a vehicle's registration plate:
- (e) the average speed of a vehicle between 2 detection points:
- (f) any speed limit or speed limits between 2 detection points:
- (g) any self-test, diagnostic, or other data about how the system is operating element, of a point-to-point average speed system, means any 1 or more of the following:

- (a) the 2 items of approved vehicle surveillance equipment at the detection points:
- (b) the location of the 2 detection points:
- (c) the surveyed distance between those 2 detection points:
- (d) if only 1 speed limit applies between those 2 detection points, that speed limit:
- (e) if more than 1 speed limit applies between those 2 detection points,—
 - (i) those speed limits; and
 - (ii) when those speed limits apply; and
 - (iii) the intermediate surveyed distance for each speed limit; and
 - (iv) the weighted average speed limit between those 2 detection points, as calculated under section 146B

intermediate surveyed distance, in a case where 2 or more speed limits apply between 2 detection points, means the distance along the length of road where each speed limit applies—

- (a) measured by a cadastral surveyor licensed under the Cadastral Survey Act 2002 in accordance with the method determined and published by the Director after consulting with the Surveyor-General appointed under that Act; and
- (b) published by the Director under section 146D

surveyed distance means the distance between 2 detection points to which 1 or more speed limits apply—

- (a) measured by a cadastral surveyor licensed under the Cadastral Survey Act 2002 in accordance with the method determined and published by the Director after consulting the Surveyor-General appointed under that Act; and

- (b) published by the Director under section 146D.

146B Weighted average speed limit between 2 detection points

- (1) This section applies if more than 1 speed limit applies between 2 detection points on a length of road along which the average speed of a vehicle is to be calculated for the purposes of section 146A.
- (2) The speed limit for the purpose of that calculation is the average weighted speed limit calculated under subsection (3).
- (3) The average weighted speed limit for a length of road between 2 detection points is to be calculated using the following formula (and expressed in kilometres per hour rounded up to the next whole number):

$$d_t \div ((d_1 \div s_1) + (d_2 \div s_2) + \dots (d_n \div s_n))$$

where—

d_t is the surveyed distance (expressed in metres and rounded down to the next whole number)

$d_1, d_2 \dots d_n$ are the intermediate surveyed distances (expressed in metres and rounded down to the next whole number) over which the speed limits between the 2 detection points apply

$s_1, s_2 \dots s_n$ are the speed limits that apply between the 2 detection points.

146C Evidence relating to average speed

- (1) This section applies to proceedings for a speeding offence in which the average speed of the vehicle under section 146A is relied on.
- (2) In those proceedings, the production of data relating to the alleged speeding offence and purporting to be generated by a point-to-point average speed system is, in the absence of proof to the contrary, sufficient evidence of the accuracy of that data.
- (3) In those proceedings, the production of a notice published under section 146D describing an element of a point-to-point average speed system is, in the absence of proof to the contrary, sufficient evidence of that element.
- (4) In cases to which section 146B applies, the weighted average speed limit calculated under that section must be treated as a speed limit in provisions in or under this Act that impose different penalties for speeding offences depending on the degree to which a speed limit is exceeded, and those provisions apply accordingly.
- (5) This section does not limit or affect any other evidence of the speed of a motor vehicle in proceedings for a speeding offence.

146D Publication of matters relating to point-to-point average speed system

- (1) The Director must publish—
 - (a) the elements of a point-to-point average speed system; and
 - (b) the method by which surveyed distances and intermediate surveyed distances are to be measured for the purpose of the operation of any point-to-point average speed system.
- (2) The Director must publish those matters by notice—
 - (a) in the Gazette; and
 - (b) on an Internet site maintained by the Agency.

146E Traffic control devices informing drivers of system

- (1) If the Agency installs a point-to-point average speed system on a road, it must ensure that, while the system is being operated, 1 or more traffic control devices are in place that inform drivers passing the first detection point of the presence of the system.
- (2) In proceedings for a speeding offence in which the average speed of the vehicle under section 146A is relied on, a certificate purporting to be signed by a constable, a Police employee who is not a constable, or an employee of the Agency, that states that 1 or more traffic control devices were in place on a date no more than 1 year before the date of the alleged offence, is, in the absence of proof to the contrary, sufficient evidence that the device or devices were in place as stated.

31 Section 199 amended (Agency to maintain register of driver licences)

Part 2 of this form outlines rights (including an outline of the rights of appeal given to the registered person of an impounded vehicle under sections 102 and 110 of the Act).

Part 2

Outline of rights relating to impoundment of vehicle referred to in this notice

What about personal property in the vehicle?

- 1 Any personal property (other than property attached to or used in connection with the operation of the vehicle) will be released on request to any person who produces satisfactory evidence that he or she was lawfully entitled to possession of the vehicle or personal property immediately before the vehicle was moved. If the vehicle was carrying goods at the time of seizure and impoundment, they will be released to any person acting on behalf of the owner of the goods if the person produces satisfactory evidence of the owner's consent to the release, or they will be released to a bailiff or constable executing a warrant to seize property under section 98 of the Summary Proceedings Act 1957.

Will my trailer be impounded?

- 2 A trailer or any other vehicle without motive power that is being towed by or is attached to a motor vehicle at the time of seizure and impoundment will not be seized or impounded.

What are my appeal rights?

- 3 If you are the registered person of the motor vehicle that has been seized and impounded (or the owner of the vehicle, if it is not registered), you may appeal against the seizure and impoundment of the vehicle. In the first instance, you may appeal to the Police; if that appeal is unsuccessful, you may then appeal to the District Court. If you decide to appeal to the Police, you must lodge your appeal with the Police within 14 days after the date on which the vehicle was seized and impounded. After that time, you may appeal to the District Court only with the agreement of the Police, who must be satisfied that exceptional circumstances exist that prevented you from appealing to the Police within the 14-day period. These appeal rights are set out in full in sections 102 and 110 of the Act.

What are the grounds for appeal?

- 4 The grounds for appeal are that—
- (a) the impounded vehicle was a stolen or converted vehicle at the time of the seizure and impoundment; or
 - (b) the enforcement officer who seized the vehicle did not believe on reasonable grounds that, at the time of driving (or operating) the vehicle on a road, a person driving the vehicle had failed to stop (or remain stopped) as signalled, requested, or required under section 114 of the Act; or
 - (c) the enforcement officer who seized the vehicle did not comply with the notice requirements set out in section 96(2) of the Act; or
 - (d) the registered person (or the owner of the vehicle, if it is not registered) did not know and could not reasonably have been expected to know that the operator of the vehicle would contravene section 114 of the Act; or
 - (e) the registered person (or the owner) took all reasonable steps to prevent the operator of the vehicle from contravening section 114 of the Act; or
 - (f) the registered person (or owner)—
 - (i) was not the person driving the vehicle when the vehicle failed to stop (or remain stopped); and
 - (ii) either—
 - (A) did not know, and could not reasonably have been expected to know, the identity of the driver; or
 - (B) has otherwise provided the information requested under section 118(4); or
 - (g) release of the vehicle to the registered person (or the owner) is appropriate because—
 - (i) the seizure and impoundment of the vehicle have resulted or will result in—
 - (A) extreme hardship to that person (whether in relation to employment or otherwise); or

- (B) undue hardship to a person other than that person (whether in relation to employment or otherwise); and
- (ii) release of the vehicle is not contrary to the interests of road safety; or
- (h) the driver drove the vehicle in a serious medical emergency (which for the purpose of this paragraph includes carrying a person who is about to give birth).

How do I lodge an appeal?

- 5 If you believe you have grounds for appealing against the impoundment of the vehicle, you should go to the Police station nearest to where the vehicle was impounded and pick up a copy of the appeal documents. The appeal must be in writing and set out in a statutory declaration. It must clearly state the grounds for the appeal. The declaration must be taken in front of someone entitled to take statutory declarations. You must lodge your appeal with the Police within 14 days after the date on which the vehicle was seized and impounded.

Who will determine my appeal?

- 6 The initial appeal against the impoundment of a vehicle will be determined by an enforcement officer authorised for the purpose by the Commissioner of Police.

Is there a time limit within which an appeal must be determined?

- 7 The officer who determines your appeal must do so as soon as is reasonably practicable and not later than 2 working days after the day of lodgement, in the case of an appeal lodged on the ground that the impounded vehicle was a stolen or converted vehicle at the time of seizure and impoundment, and not later than 5 working days after the day of lodgement, in any other case.

Results of appeal to Police

- 8 The officer who determines your appeal will either allow the appeal or dismiss it. They may refuse to consider your appeal if satisfied that the appeal is frivolous or vexatious, or that you have provided insufficient information. If your appeal is not dismissed on those grounds, the officer who considers it will allow it if satisfied that one of the grounds listed in paragraph 4 is established. If they are not satisfied that one of the grounds listed in paragraph 4 is established, the appeal will be dismissed.

Appeal to District Court

- 9 If your appeal is dismissed, you may appeal to the District Court where a District Court Judge will decide whether your appeal should be allowed. An appeal to a District Court must be made not later than 28 days after the date on which you were notified of the decision appealed against, or within such further period as the court may allow. Requirements about the way in which the appeal is to be made and determined are specified in section 111 of the Act. The District Court must determine the appeal only on the grounds specified in the Act.

Towage and storage fees

- 10 The fees for towage and storage are set out in regulations. You can obtain a copy of the fees from your nearest Police station.

How do I go about paying the fees?

- 11 If you are the registered person, you are required to do 1 of the following within 38 days after the vehicle was seized and impounded:
- (a) pay the fees and charges for towage and storage;
 - (b) enter into an arrangement with the vehicle recovery operator (for towage) or the storage provider (for storage) for the payment of those fees and charges (for example, an arrangement for payment by instalments).

Release of vehicle

- 12 The storage provider must release the impounded vehicle to the registered person or a person authorised by the registered person if your appeal is successful. The storage provider must release the impounded vehicle to the registered person if the Police finally decide not to take proceedings against the person who drove the vehicle (or operated the vehicle), or if proceedings have been taken and the person is acquitted. The Act specifies other circumstances in which an impounded vehicle may be released before the close of the impoundment period. The storage provider must release the impounded vehicle to the registered person of the vehicle, or a person authorised by the registered person, on or after the close of the impoundment period if the registered person or authorised person—
- (a) shows proof of identity and either proof of ownership of the vehicle or the registered person's copy of this notice; and
 - (b) pays the towage and storage fees and charges or enters into an arrangement with the storage provider to pay those fees and charges. (Note that a registered person may enter into an arrangement only with the agreement of the person with whom the arrangement is entered into.)

Vehicle may be seized under warrant

- 13 The vehicle may be seized by a bailiff or constable executing a warrant to seize property under section 98 of the Summary Proceedings Act 1957 or by a registrar, bailiff, or constable executing a warrant of confiscation under section 132 of the Sentencing Act 2002.

Vehicle and personal property may be sold by storage provider

- 14 The storage provider may apply to an enforcement officer authorised by the Commissioner of Police for approval to dispose of the impounded vehicle, and any personal property found in the vehicle, if—
- (a) 38 days have elapsed since the vehicle was seized and impounded; and
 - (b) the registered person for the vehicle (or the owner, if the vehicle is not registered) or a person authorised by the registered person (or owner) has not claimed the vehicle and has not paid the towage and storage fees and charges or entered into an arrangement to pay those fees and charges; and
 - (c) no other person has established to the satisfaction of the authorised officer that the person is entitled to possession of the vehicle or any personal property found in the vehicle.
