

New Zealand.

ANALYSIS.

Title.
1. Short Title.

2. Further definition of "auction sale."
3. Definition of "outcry."
4. No time-limit for auctions for charities, &c.

1894, No. 12.

AN ACT to amend "The Auctioneers Act, 1891."

Title.

[21st August, 1894.]

BE IT ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. The Short Title of this Act is "The Auctioneers Act Amendment Act, 1894."

Short Title.

2. The words "sales by auction" or "sell by auction" shall, in addition to the meaning assigned to them in section two of "The Auctioneers Act, 1891" (herein referred to as "the said Act"), be deemed to include the selling of any property of any kind whatever by outcry in any public place, as the same is defined in "The Police Offences Act, 1884," or in any room, or mart, or place to which the public are admitted or have access, whether or not the sale of the goods has been advertised to take place.

Further definition of "auction sale."

And the person so conducting any sale as aforesaid shall be deemed to be an auctioneer within the meaning of the said Act.

3. In this Act "outcry" includes any request, inducement, puff, device, or incitement whatsoever, made or used by means of signs, speech, or otherwise in the presence of not less than six people by any person for the purpose of selling any property offered or available for sale, whether such property shall or shall not be the same as that shown or referred to by him when making or using such request, inducement, puff, device, or incitement.

Definition of "outcry."

4. All goods or articles of any kind whatsoever being the bonâ fide property of any church committee, Charitable Aid Board or Committee, or School Committee, or any exhibits of fruit, vegetables, or flowers exhibited at any horticultural show, may be sold by any auctioneer without limit of time as to the hours of such sale: Provided always that no such auctioneer shall be entitled to make any charge for conducting any such sale as aforesaid.

No time-limit for auctions for charities, &c.