

New Zealand.

ANALYSIS.

- | | |
|--|--|
| Title. 1. Short Title. Commencement. | 2. Wireless telegraphy on ships. Repeals. |
|--|--|

1924, No. 66.

AN ACT to amend the Shipping and Seamen Act, 1908.

Title.

[Reserved for the signification of His Majesty's pleasure thereon.]

BE IT ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :—

1. (1.) This Act may be cited as the Shipping and Seamen Amendment Act, 1924, and shall be read together with and deemed part of the Shipping and Seamen Act, 1908. Short Title.

(2.) This Act shall come into operation on the day on which His Majesty's assent thereto is notified by the Governor-General by a Proclamation published in the Gazette, or on such later date (being not later than three months after the date of the Proclamation) as is specified in that behalf in the Proclamation. Commencement.

2. (1.) The Governor-General may from time to time, by Order in Council, make regulations requiring any class or classes of ships registered in New Zealand, or any class or classes of home-trade ships, whether registered in New Zealand or not, to be provided with wireless telegraph installations for transmitting and receiving messages; and may by such regulations prescribe the nature of the installations in any case, conditions for their use and maintenance, and fines not exceeding two hundred and fifty pounds for breaches of any regulation. Every such fine shall be recoverable summarily under the Justices of the Peace Act, 1908. Wireless telegraphy on ships.

(2.) This section is in substitution for section fifty of the Shipping and Seamen Amendment Act, 1909, and that section and section nine of the Shipping and Seamen Amendment Act, 1922, are hereby repealed. Repeals.