

A BILL INTITULED

AN ACT to amend “The Civil Service Act 1866.” Title.

WHEREAS by the forty-third section of an Act of the General Assembly called “The Civil Service Act 1866” it is enacted that nothing in the said Act contained shall entitle any person whomsoever except such as may have actually retired from the Civil Service of New Zealand under the provisions in that Act in that behalf to any vested interest in any advantage to accrue under the same as to any compensation for the loss thereof should the said Act be repealed or so altered or amended by the General Assembly within away any such interest or advantage and whereas it is expedient that the limitation of three years specified in the said section should be abolished

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED by the General Assembly of New Zealand in Parliament assembled and by the authority of the same as follows—

1. The Short Title of this Act shall be “The Civil Service Act Amendment Act 1868.” Short Title.
2. The forty-third section of “The Civil Service Act 1866” hereinafter referred to as “the said Act” is hereby repealed. Forty-third section repealed.
3. Nothing in the said Act contained shall entitle any person whomsoever except such as may have actually retired from the Civil Service of New Zealand under the provisions in that behalf contained in the said Act to any compensation on account of any diminution of or alteration in the scale of superannuation allowances or any other alteration of the provisions contained in the said Act which may at any time hereafter be made by any Act amending or repealing the said Act. No claim for compensation if Act altered.