

POST OFFICE AMENDMENT BILL

EXPLANATORY NOTE

THIS Bill amends the Post Office Act 1959.

Clause 1 relates to the Short Title and commencement. The Bill is to come into force on a date to be fixed by the Governor-General by Order in Council.

Clause 2 substitutes a new Part VII of the Act dealing with the Post Office Savings Bank to liberalise the scope of its operation and to include in its activities the matters previously contained in Part VIII of the Act (money orders, postal notes, postal orders, and travellers cheques). Most of the present detail in both Parts has been omitted and is to be dealt with by regulations or determined by the Postmaster-General.

The new section 113 defines the expression "depositor".

Section 114 widens the scope of the Post Office Savings Bank to include such banking and banking related services as may be prescribed by regulations or determined by the Postmaster-General with the concurrence of the Minister of Finance.

Section 115 provides for payment of all money received into the Post Office Account and the investment of such deposits and again provides for details to be prescribed by regulations or the Postmaster-General.

It also provides, as in the present section 125, for amounts payable by the Post Office Savings Bank to be paid without further appropriation than this clause.

Section 116 provides, as at present, for security for depositors and bondholders.

Section 117 deals with the determination of rates of interest payable in respect of money deposited or invested as at present.

Section 118 preserves the confidentiality of transactions with the Post Office Savings Bank.

Section 119 provides for the remittance of funds and transfers of depositors' funds and replaces the present Part VIII of the Act. The detailed arrangements are to be prescribed by regulations or determined by the Postmaster-General.

Section 120 provides for the Postmaster-General's ancillary powers.

The power to take and deal in shares in any company that provides services in connection with such banking services as are authorised under the proposed section 114 and the specific power to enter into contracts in relation to his functions under Part VII of the Act are new.

Section 121 continues the present register of securities.

Section 122 provides for nomination of beneficiaries as at present.

Section 123 continues the present Home Lay-by Accounts with part of the details to be contained in regulations or directed by the Postmaster-General.

Section 124 continues the present application of other Acts to the Post Office Savings Bank.

Section 125 provides for a general regulation-making power.

Clause 3 rewrites the present section 178 regarding the preparation of annual accounts to show more fully the financial position of the Post Office and its operations for the year.

Clause 4 amends section 179 regarding the accounts to be laid before Parliament in view of the new wording of section 178 under clause 3 of the Bill.

Clause 5 amends the declaration of secrecy in view of the proposed revised wording of section 118 under clause 2 of the Bill.

Clause 6 deals with consequential repeals.
