

Waikato-Tainui Raupatu Claims (Waikato River) Settlement Bill

Government Bill

Explanatory note

General policy statement

This Bill gives effect to the deed of settlement and Kiingitanga Accord by which the Crown and Waikato-Tainui—

- agree to a final settlement of Waikato-Tainui historical raupatu claims relating to the Waikato River; and
- establish co-management and related arrangements for the overarching purpose of restoring and protecting the health and wellbeing of the Waikato River for future generations.

Scope of settlement

Waikato-Tainui comprises those descendants of the Tainui waka as defined in the Waikato Raupatu Claims Settlement Act 1995.

The settlement reflects the importance to Waikato-Tainui of the dual principles of te mana o te awa and mana whakahaere.

In terms of the first principle of te mana o te awa, the settlement relates to the Waikato River from Huka Falls to the mouth of the Waikato River.

In terms of the second principle of mana whakahaere, the settlement includes co-management provisions with Waikato-Tainui relating to the Waikato River from Karapiro to the mouth of the Waikato River, including part of the Waipaa River from its junction with the Puuniu River to its junction with the Waikato River.

The settlement includes a vision and strategy for the Waikato River, developed by the Guardians Establishment Committee which was representative of Waikato River iwi and communities.

The settlement settles all the historical raupatu claims of Waikato-Tainui that are defined in clause 42 of this Bill and that relate to the Waikato River.

The settled claims include those parts of the Wai 30 claim to the Waitangi Tribunal relating to the Waikato River (being the claims set out in paragraphs A1-5 of the statement of claim dated 16 March 1987); but do not include any excluded claim described in section 8(2) of the Waikato Raupatu Claims Settlement Act 1995 other than those parts relating to the Waikato River.

History of claim

The Waikato-Tainui historical raupatu claims were lodged in the Waitangi Tribunal in 1987 by Robert Te Kotahi Mahuta. The claims relating to the Waikato River, and certain other claims, were expressly excluded from the 1995 Waikato-Tainui settlement.

Terms of negotiation for the excluded claims were entered into in December 2005. In May 2007 a draft Agreement in Principle to settle the Waikato River claims was released for wide consultation, following which an Agreement in Principle was signed in December 2007. The deed of settlement and the Kiingitanga Accord were signed on 22 August 2008.

Summary of settlement

The Waikato River settlement contains instruments and agreements that acknowledge the grievances of Waikato-Tainui, provide redress for historical Treaty breaches in relation to the Waikato River, and introduce a new era of co-management to restore and protect the health and wellbeing of the Waikato River and, in so doing, secure sound and effective Treaty-based relationships for the future.

The settlement is a final resolution of the historical raupatu claims of Waikato-Tainui in relation to the Waikato River and creates binding co-management arrangements for the future.

The arrangements provided for in the settlement reflect a commitment by the Crown and Waikato-Tainui to enter a new era of co-management over the Waikato River with an overarching purpose of the settlement to restore and protect the health and wellbeing of the Waikato River for future generations.

Co-management requires more than consultation alone. The successful implementation of co-management through the arrangements provided for in the settlement requires a new approach. Accordingly, the Crown and Waikato-Tainui acknowledge that co-management includes:

- the highest level of good faith engagement; and
 - consensus decision-making as a general rule,
- while having regard to statutory frameworks and the mana whaka-haere of Waikato-Tainui and other Waikato River iwi.

The Crown and Waikato-Tainui further acknowledge that, to be effective, co-management must be implemented and achieved as appropriate at a number of levels and across a range of management agencies, bodies and authorities.

Key elements

The key elements of the settlement comprise:

- acknowledgements of the Crown;
- a commitment to co-management;
- recognition of the statement of significance of the Waikato River to Waikato-Tainui;
- legislative recognition of the vision and strategy for the Waikato River;
- establishment of, and the granting of functions and powers to, the Guardians of the Waikato River through the settlement legislation;
- establishment of, and the granting of functions and powers to, the Waikato River Statutory Board through the settlement legislation;
- co-management arrangements, including the establishment of an integrated river management plan;
- the Kiingitanga Accord;

- entry by Ministers of the Crown and the Commissioner of Crown Lands into other accords; and
- commitments relating to certain assets.

Regulatory impact statement

Executive summary

The settlement package includes a vision and strategy for the Waikato River, which will be—

- (a) a national policy statement under the Resource Management Act 1991; and
- (b) a statement of general policy for the purposes of conservation legislation.

Persons performing functions or exercising powers under other legislation relevant to the Waikato River will have to have particular regard to the vision and strategy.

It is anticipated that the costs associated with reviewing, and if necessary amending, existing plans or policies to reflect the vision and strategy will be absorbed by the existing statutory decision-makers. Waikato-Tainui has negotiated a contestable fund for the clean-up of the Waikato River. The fund will be administered by a Trust with an initial contribution made by the Crown. The total amount of the Crown's contribution will be finalised following an independent scoping study to identify clean up priorities.

Adequacy statement

The Office of Treaty Settlements and the Treasury have prepared this statement and consider that it provides an accurate summary of the regulatory impacts associated with the settlement of the historical raupatu claims of Waikato-Tainui that relate to the Waikato River.

Status quo and problem

The settlement with Waikato-Tainui is based on well-founded claims of historical breaches of the Treaty of Waitangi by the Crown arising from the raupatu of the 1860's and its consequences.

The management of the Waikato River since raupatu has failed to prevent the deterioration of the health of the Waikato River and has failed to provide for and protect the special relationship of Waikato-Tainui with the Waikato River.

The pollution, degradation, and development of the Waikato River, its lakes, streams and wetlands have also resulted in the decline of its once rich fisheries, which have for generations sustained the way of life of the people of Waikato-Tainui and their ability to meet their obligations of manaakitanga.

Objectives

The public policy objectives associated with this settlement are to—

- (a) resolve the historical grievances of Waikato-Tainui;
- (b) enter into a new era of co-management over the Waikato River;
- (c) restore and protect the health and wellbeing of the Waikato River;
- (d) recognise and sustain the special relationship Waikato-Tainui have with the Waikato River; and
- (e) restore the honour of the Crown.

These objectives are consistent with those in the Crown's public information document entitled Healing the past, building the future—A guide to Treaty of Waitangi claims and negotiations with the Crown.

Alternative options

Status quo

To do nothing would fail to meet the Crown's obligations to Waikato-Tainui under the deed of settlement and the Treaty of Waitangi. It would also be contrary to the Crown's established policy of addressing historical Treaty of Waitangi claims.

Preventing further deterioration of the health of the Waikato River and its fisheries and aquatic flora and fauna cannot be assured without changes to the way the Waikato River is managed.

Preferred option

The preferred option is for the Crown to implement the settlement package that has been negotiated with Waikato-Tainui. The settlement package has the following regulatory impacts.

Vision and strategy

A vision and strategy for the Waikato River has been developed and is to be given recognition in existing legislation affecting the Waikato River.

The vision and strategy will be—

- (a) a national policy statement under the Resource Management Act 1991 and associated legislation, requiring local authorities to give effect to the vision and strategy when preparing or changing regional plans and policy statements and district plans, and to have regard to the vision and strategy when considering a resource consent application; and
- (b) a statement of general policy for the purposes of conservation legislation, which must be implemented by the Director-General of Conservation when preparing conservation management strategies and plans.

These changes will not affect existing use rights but, when new use rights are created or existing rights lapse, the decisions regarding these rights will need to take into consideration the new considerations listed in the vision and strategy.

Persons performing functions or exercising powers under other legislation relevant to the Waikato River will have to have particular regard to the vision and strategy.

It is anticipated that the costs associated with reviewing, and if necessary amending, existing plans or policies to reflect the vision and strategy will be absorbed by the existing statutory decision-makers. Timeframes for review of existing plans or policies are expected to coincide with those reviews required for the forthcoming national policy statement on the management of freshwater. Substantive obligations under the vision and strategy to address clean up of the Waikato River will be considered and addressed in the administration of the Waikato River Clean-up Fund.

Integrated river management plan

An integrated river management plan has been identified as a mechanism to achieve an integrated approach between Waikato-Tainui, relevant Crown agencies and relevant local authorities to the management of aquatic life, habitats and natural resources within the Waikato River.

This plan would apply to the lower Waikato River from Karapiro to Te Puuaha o Waikato, and the lower Waipaa River. It is proposed that the plan will address—

- (a) issues related to conservation management under the conservation legislation; and
- (b) issues related to fisheries management under the Fisheries Act 1996; and
- (c) issues related to resource management, biosecurity and local government functions of Environment Waikato under the Resource Management Act 1991, Biosecurity Act 1993, Local Government Act 2002, and any other relevant legislation; and
- (d) any other matters agreed between Waikato-Tainui and any appropriate agency, including territorial authorities, responsible for administering or exercising functions, powers and duties under any legislation that affects the Waikato River.

The plan will have status as a conservation management plan and a freshwater fisheries management plan under the Conservation Act 1987. The plan will have status as a fisheries plan under the Fisheries Act 1996. Any local authority that is preparing, reviewing or changing a Resource Management Act 1991 planning document will have to have regard to the plan. It is expected that the plan will assist decision-makers under these frameworks to meet their obligations with respect to the vision and strategy and the overarching purpose of the settlement.

Joint working party

The settlement provides for the early engagement of Waikato-Tainui by local authorities in resource management policy and planning processes through joint working parties convened by the Waikato River Statutory Board.

Waikato-Tainui environmental plan

The settlement provides that Waikato-Tainui may prepare a Waikato-Tainui environmental plan and lodge it with relevant local authorities, the Director-General of Conservation, the Chief Executive of the Ministry of Fisheries or any other relevant agency.

A local authority with which the Waikato-Tainui environmental plan has been lodged will have to take the plan into account when preparing, reviewing or changing a Resource Management Act 1991 planning document and a consent authority will have to have regard to the Waikato-Tainui environmental plan when considering a resource consent application where a consent authority considers a plan relevant and reasonably necessary to determine an application.

Persons exercising functions, powers and duties under sections 12 to 14 of the Fisheries Act 1996 will have to recognise and provide for the Waikato-Tainui environmental plan.

Regulations

It is proposed that the settlement package provide for the making of regulations for the management and enhancement of fisheries and aquatic flora and fauna in the Waikato and Waipaa Rivers, their tributaries, and lakes and wetlands within their catchments. The regulatory impacts of such regulations will be considered when they are proposed in future.

Implementation and review

The settlement of the historical raupatu claims of Waikato-Tainui to the Waikato River is intended to be a full and final settlement of the historical raupatu claims of Waikato-Tainui to the Waikato River.

Consultation

The Guardians Establishment Committee (GEC) was formed in March 2008 to develop the vision and strategy for the Waikato River. Its members included representatives from the Crown, Waikato River iwi, regional and territorial local authorities, and industry.

The GEC released the draft vision and strategy for public consultation on 7 May, and received 94 submissions from a wide range of parties, before amending and recommending the vision and strategy to the Crown and Waikato-Tainui.

In the early development of the settlement package, all relevant local authorities in the Waikato region were consulted in the development of the Waikato River Statutory Board.

The following departments have been involved in the development of the settlement package: Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet, The Treasury, Ministry for the Environment, Ministry of Fisheries, Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry, Department of Conservation, Department of Internal Affairs, Land Information New Zealand, Ministry of Economic Development, and Te Puni Kōkiri. The Crown Law Office was informed about the contents of the settlement.

Preamble

The Relationship of Waikato-Tainui with the Waikato River

“Noo taatou te awa. Noo te awa taatou. E kore e taea te wehe te iwi o Waikato me te awa. He taonga tuku iho naa ngaa tuupuna. E whakapono ana maatou ko taa maatou, he tiaki 5
i taua taonga moo ngaa uri whakatupu.” Robert Te Kotahi
Mahuta 1975

Te Mana o te Awa

- (1) To Waikato-Tainui, the Waikato River is a tupuna (ancestor) 10 which has mana (prestige) and in turn represents the mana and mauri (life force) of the tribe. Respect for te mana o te awa (the spiritual authority, protective power and prestige of the Waikato River) is at the heart of the relationship between the tribe and their ancestral river.

Mana whakahaere 15

- (2) Mana whakahaere embodies the authority that Waikato-Tainui 20 and other River tribes have established in respect of the Waikato River over many generations, to exercise control, access to and management of the Waikato River and its resources in accordance with tikanga (values, ethics and norms 20 of conduct). For Waikato-Tainui, mana whakahaere has long been exercised under the mana of the Kiingitanga.

Raupatu and the River: Invasion and War, Confiscation of Waikato lands

- (3) Waikato-Tainui, as at 1840, possessed their River, and their 25 lands in accordance with their tikanga along with other Waikato River iwi. The Treaty of Waitangi guaranteed in the Maori text “te tino rangatiratanga o o ratou wenua o ratou kainga me o ratou taonga katoa” or in the English text “the 30 full exclusive and undisturbed possession of their Lands and Estates Forests Fisheries and other properties which they may collectively or individually possess so long as it is their wish and desire to retain the same in their possession”.
- (4) Waikato-Tainui made public statements of their authority over 35
the Waikato River from the time they first became concerned that the Crown might itself claim authority over it. When the Governor’s intentions to put an iron steamer on the River became known late in 1862, Patara Te Tuhi, editor of the Kiingitanga newspaper Te Hokioi, expressed the opposition of the chiefs warning that the gunboat might not enter the River without permission. He asserted tribal authority over the River in these words: “E hara a Waikato awa i a te kuini, erangi no nga Maori anake”. (The Waikato River does not belong to the Queen of England, it belongs only to Maori.) 5

(5) In July 1863, the Crown’s military forces crossed the Mangataawhiri River. In the ensuing war of 1863-64, the Crown’s forces attacked by both land and water. The Crown’s armed steamers and barges played a crucial role in the invasion as they carried Crown forces and supplies up the Waikato River and into the Waipaa River, and shelled Waikato defences. 10

(6) In December 1863, Crown forces occupied Ngaaruawaahia, the home of the King and the political centre of the Kiingitanga. During the war, many communities who supported the Kiingitanga were driven out of the Waikato. In 1864-65 military settlements, including Hamilton and Cambridge, were established on the Waikato River, and also on the Waipaa River. 15

(7) Confiscation of Waikato lands followed in 1865. The Waikato confiscation area extended from the Hauraki Gulf to Karapiro in the east, via Pukekura, Oraakau and the Puuniu River to the south, and from Whaingaroa (Raglan) to Te Puuaha o Waikato in the west. 20

Waikato-Tainui Experience of Raupatu

(8) From the time of the Raupatu, the Crown assumed control of, and exercised jurisdiction over, the Waikato River. Waikato-Tainui were excluded from decision making: nor were they consulted as to their understanding of the River and its ecosystems. Waikato-Tainui rights and interests (whether at law, equity, custom or by the Treaty of Waitangi or otherwise), and the authority and control that they exercised to protect and ensure the well-being of the River and its resources, were denied. 25 30

(9) Following the Raupatu and the cessation of hostilities, new settlers occupied the confiscated lands, and farms and towns were developed along the Waikato River. The River was used for farming, coal mining, power generation schemes, the discharge of waste, and domestic and industrial abstraction. The wetlands were drained, flood protection schemes were initi- 35

ated and sand and shingle were removed. While all of these uses of the Waikato River contributed to the economic growth of New Zealand, they also contributed to the pollution and deterioration of the health of the Waikato River and have significantly impacted on the fisheries and plant life of the River. 5

- (10) Though they have continued to assert their mana whakahaere in order to protect the Waikato River and all its resources under the mana of the Kiingitanga, according to their tikanga, Waikato-Tainui believe that their ability to meet their obligations to the Waikato River, as their Awa Tupuna (Ancestral River), and to ensure its well-being has been severely compromised. Waikato-Tainui feel this sense of injustice as strongly today as they did in the past. 10

Waikato-Tainui Commitment to the Search for Justice

- (11) In the changing legal and political landscape of New Zealand, Waikato-Tainui have always maintained the importance of their unique relationship with the River, and the need to respect and restore its well-being. 15

- (12) Robert Te Kotahi Mahuta, who led the Kiingitanga search for justice from the 1970's, appealed against the granting of water rights for the Huntly Power Station, at a time when little consideration was given to Waikato-Tainui values and rights. From 1985, a new commitment by the Crown to addressing historical grievances brought hope to Waikato-Tainui that their Raupatu claim, which affected both lands and the River, might be resolved. Waikato-Tainui negotiated their claim directly with the Crown and reached settlement in 1995, excluding and preserving their claims in respect of the Waikato River. 20 25

- (13) From the late 1980s, Waikato-Tainui also sought to protect the River, and their Raupatu claim, through negotiation with the Crown, and through the courts, from the impact of the Government's policy of privatisation of assets and corporatisation. In particular, Waikato-Tainui were concerned that their interests in the River would be depleted and that this would further alienate Waikato-Tainui from the River. The Crown agreed not to transfer water rights, issued in perpetuity, to any State enterprise. The new Resource Management regime included limits for the period for which water rights could be granted. 30 35

- (14) The Resource Management Act 1991 gave regional and local authorities substantial functions and powers over natural resources, including the power to grant resource consents for River use. The Act did not, however, provide for protection of te mana o te awa and te mana whakahaere of Waikato-Tainui. Since the Act came into effect, Waikato-Tainui have been involved as respondents in many consent hearings, seeking conditions which would protect the River. 5
- (15) Negotiations with the Crown were commenced by Robert Te Kotahi Mahuta on behalf of Waikato-Tainui in 1999. Following his death, they recommenced in 2005, leading to the deed of settlement and the Kiingitanga Accord between the Crown and Waikato-Tainui dated 22 August 2008. 10
- (16) From the 1860s to the present, Waikato-Tainui have continually sought justice for their Raupatu claim and protection for the River. The principles of te mana o te awa and mana whakahaere have long sustained the Waikato River claim together with the principles described in the Kiingitanga Accord, and those principles underlie the new regime to be implemented by this settlement. 20

Crown Acknowledgements

- (17) In summary, the Crown acknowledges:
- (a) that the historical Waikato River claims by Waikato-Tainui arise from the 1860s raupatu and its consequences; and 25
 - (b) that the Crown's 1863 invasion by both land and the Waikato River was a double blow to Waikato-Tainui; and
 - (c) that the Crown's breach of the Treaty of Waitangi denied Waikato-Tainui their rights and interests in, and mana whakahere over, the Waikato River; and 30
 - (d) that Waikato-Tainui never willingly or knowingly relinquished their rights and interests in, or authority over, the Waikato River; and
 - (e) the importance to Waikato-Tainui of the principle of te mana o te Awa; and 35
 - (f) to Waikato-Tainui the Waikato River is a tupuna which has mana and in turn represents the mana and mauri of Waikato-Tainui; and

- (g) that to Waikato-Tainui, the Waikato River is a single indivisible being; and
- (h) that for Waikato-Tainui, their relationship with, and respect for, the Waikato River gives rise to their responsibilities to protect the mana and mauri of the River and exercise their mana whakahaere in accordance with their long established tikanga; and 5
- (i) that for Waikato-Tainui, their relationship with, and respect for, the Waikato River lies at the heart of their spiritual and physical wellbeing, and their tribal identity and culture; and 10
- (j) that the Crown has failed to respect, provide for and protect the special relationship of Waikato-Tainui with the Waikato River; and
- (k) that the deterioration of the health of the Waikato River, while under the authority of the Crown, has been a source of distress for the people of Waikato-Tainui; and 15
- (l) that the pollution, degradation and development of the Waikato River, its lakes, streams and wetlands have caused the decline of once rich fisheries that, for generations, had sustained the people's way of life and their ability to meet obligations of manaakitanga, and this is a further source of distress; and 20
- (m) that the Crown respects the deeply felt obligation of Waikato-Tainui to protect te mana o te awa; and 25
- (n) that the Crown seeks a settlement that will recognise and sustain the special relationship of Waikato-Tainui with the Waikato River; and
- (o) that the Crown undertakes to assist and work with Waikato-Tainui to restore their mana whakahaere; and 30
- (p) that Waikato-Tainui wish to promote the concept of a korowai to bring the River tribes together as an affirmation of their common purpose to protect te mana o te awa.

The Parliament of New Zealand therefore enacts as follows:

49 Consequential amendments

The enactments in Schedule 6 are amended as set out in that Schedule. 10

Schedule 1

s 6

Principles described in Kiingitanga Accord

- 1 Te mana o te awa (the spiritual authority, protective power, and prestige of the river) 5
- (1) To Waikato-Tainui, the Waikato River is a tupuna (ancestor) which has mana (prestige) and in turn represents the mana and mauri (life force) of the tribe. The River has its own mauri, its own spiritual energy and its own powerful identity. It is a single indivisible being. 10
- (2) Respect for te mana o te awa (the spiritual authority, protective power, and prestige of the Waikato River) is at the heart of the relationship between the tribe and their ancestral River. Waikato-Tainui regard their River with reverence and love. It gave them their name and is the source of their tribal identity. Over generations, Waikato-Tainui have developed tikanga (values, ethics, governing conduct) which embody their profound respect for the Waikato River and all life within it. The Waikato River sustains the people physically and spiritually. It brings them peace in times of stress, relief from illness and pain, and cleanses and purifies their bodies and souls from the many problems that surround them. Spiritually, to Waikato-Tainui, the Waikato River is constant, enduring and perpetual. 25
- 2 Mana whakahaere (authority and rights of control)
- (1) Mana whakahaere refers to the authority that Waikato-Tainui and other Waikato River iwi have established in respect of the Waikato River over many generations. Mana whakahaere entails the exercise of rights and responsibilities to ensure that the balance and mauri (life force) of the Waikato River are maintained. It is based in recognition that if we care for the River, the River will continue to sustain the people. 30
- (2) In customary terms mana whakahaere is the exercise of control, access to, and management of the Waikato River, including its resources in accordance with tikanga (values, ethics, governing conduct). For Waikato-Tainui, mana whakahaere has long been exercised under the mana of the Kiingitanga. 35

3 Health and wellbeing

- (1) The principle of health and wellbeing reflects the overarching purpose of the settlement, which is to restore and protect the health and wellbeing of the Waikato River.
- (2) The health and wellbeing of Waikato-Tainui and its special relationship with the Waikato River is inherently connected with the health and wellbeing of the Waikato River. 5

4 Co-management

- (1) The Crown and Waikato-Tainui have committed to enter into a new era of co-management in respect of the Waikato River. 10
The principle of co-management includes—
 - (a) the highest level of good faith engagement; and
 - (b) consensus decision-making as a general rule;—
while having regard to statutory frameworks and the mana whakahaere of Waikato-Tainui and other Waikato River iwi. 15
- (2) To be effective, co-management must—
 - (a) be implemented and achieved at a number of levels and across a range of management agencies, bodies and authorities, including (but without limitation) the following: 20
 - (i) the development, amendment and implementation of strategies, policy, legislation and regulations that may potentially impact on the health and wellbeing of the Waikato River; and
 - (ii) the processes for granting, transfer, variation and renewal of consents, licenses, permits and other authorisations for all activities that potentially impact on the health and wellbeing of the Waikato River; and 25
 - (b) include provision for effective Waikato-Tainui input and participation by engagement at an early stage in statutory and management processes, and other actions, that may affect the health and wellbeing of the Waikato River, including the planning and development of new and amended policies or management initiatives or decisions affecting or relating to the Waikato River. 30
This is a positive obligation to provide for early and 35 effective input from Waikato-Tainui, rather than simply an obligation to consult.

5 Integration

Arising from the principles of te mana o te awa and mana whakahaere, and inter-related to the principle of co-management, is the principle of integration. The health and wellbeing of the Waikato River and successful co-management requires effective integration of management between the relevant government agencies, Crown entities, local authorities and non-governmental agencies who have roles and responsibilities in respect of the Waikato River. 5 10

6 Treaty of Waitangi

Te Tiriti o Waitangi/the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles apply to the Kiingitanga Accord and the relationship between the Crown and Waikato-Tainui reflected in the Kiingitanga Accord. 15

7 Honour and integrity

Underpinning the settlement is the principle of honour and integrity. Waikato-Tainui and the Crown have entered into the settlement in good faith relying on the commitments of each other contained in the 2008 deed and the Kiingitanga Accord with the intention of achieving a full, fair and durable settlement of the raupatu claims of Waikato-Tainui in relation to the Waikato River. 20
