EXPLANATORY NOTE

This note is not part of the regulations, but is intended to indicate their general effect.

At present it is an offence for any fisherman (whether amateur or commercial) to take controlled fish from a controlled fishery without a controlled fishery licence to do so. These regulations relax the total prohibition in respect of amateur fishermen to take controlled fish up to the prescribed limit.

The limits for oysters, rock lobsters, and scallops are the same as for amateur catches in areas outside the controlled fisheries. The limits on finfish are new, and relate only to the Hauraki Gulf.

A similar relaxation in respect of commercial fishermen taking controlled fish as a by-catch is made by the Fisheries (Commercial Fishing) Regulations 1983, Amendment No. 1.

Issued under the authority of the Regulations Act 1936.
