Immigration Guidelines

Unless you are a New Zealand citizen you must apply for a permit or exemption from a permit.

- You may claim an exemption from a permit if you are:
 - an Australian citizen;
 - a Commonwealth or Irish citizen with the right to reside permanently in Australia and you are arriving direct from Australia;
 - a person granted diplomatic or consular privileges in New Zealand;
 - a member of Commonwealth armed forces on duty in New Zealand;
 - a crew member, or a cruise ship passenger whose ship is in port.
- You may apply for a temporary permit (not working) if you intend a short visit and know you are not required to hold a visa; or if you hold the correct visa or entry authority.
- You may apply for a temporary permit (working) or student permit or permanent residence permit if you already hold the correct visa or entry authority.

Important Notice

You may be refused a permit or an exemption from holding a permit if you:

- have been convicted and sentenced to prison or detention for 12 months or more;
- have been deported from New Zealand or any other country.

If you think you may be refused a permit or an exemption from holding a permit, do not sign the Arrival Declaration — ask to talk to an Immigration Officer as soon as you arrive.
