EXPLANATORY NOTE

This note is not part of the regulations, but is intended to indicate their general effect.

These regulations prescribe the admission fees, practising fees, and restoration fee payable under the Law Practitioners Act 1955, and the Court fee payable for the issue of a practising certificate.

The admission fees payable by candidates qualifying in New Zealand are increased. At present the fee payable by any such candidate for admission as a barrister or as a solicitor is $63. Where the candidate is admitted as a barrister and as a solicitor the admission fees amount to $78.75. In future the fee for admission as a barrister or as a solicitor or as a barrister and as a solicitor will be $125, but if the candidate is admitted to one branch of the profession he will not be liable to pay any further admission fee if he is subsequently admitted to the other branch of the profession.

Issued under the authority of the Regulations Act 1936.

Date of notification in Gazette: 1 June 1972.

These regulations are administered in the Department of Justice.
