Statement of reasons

This notice, which comes into force on the day after the date of its notification in the Gazette, amends the Securities Act (Retirement Villages) Exemption Notice 1999 (“the principal notice”) by

- extending the expiry date of the principal notice from 30 June 2004 to 30 June 2006; and
- revoking clause 7(2)(b).

The Securities Commission considers it appropriate to extend the duration of exemptions contained in the principal notice because—

- section 107 of the Retirement Villages Act 2003, which excludes a security arising out of an offer of occupation of a retirement village from the application of the Securities Act 1978, has yet to come into force; and
- until all retirement village schemes have been registered under the provisions of the Retirement Villages Act 2003, specified issuers and persons acting on their behalf should be able to continue to have the benefit of the existing exemption.

The Securities Commission considers it appropriate to revoke clause 7(2)(b) of the principal notice, which contains a condition of the exemption from section 37A(1)(c) of the Securities Act 1978, because—

- the revocation of that paragraph removes the restriction that the allotment of securities be no more than 6 years after the specified date of the prospectus, and so allows an issuer to continue using an existing prospectus; and
- the remaining conditions of the exemption in clause 7(2) cover the requirement for an issuer to ensure its prospectus contains up-to-date information for investors.
