Statement of reasons

This notice comes into force on the day after the date of its notification in the Gazette and expires on 30 November 2015.

The notice exempts certain persons from the substantial security holders' disclosure obligations found in sections 22 to 25 of the Securities Markets Act 1988 (the Act) in respect of certain relevant interests under the new NZCDC settlement system.

The Securities Commission considers that it is appropriate to grant the exemptions because—

- the exemptions are consistent with the current policy of the Act, which excludes certain interests in securities from the definition of relevant interest, thereby limiting the scope of the circumstances in which substantial holdings in securities must be disclosed;
- given the nature and extent to which interests may arise by virtue of the operation of the NZCDC settlement system and the parties that may hold an interest, compliance with the Act in full may otherwise inhibit an informed market;
- the relevant interests in securities falling within the exemptions arise as a result of the holding and transfer of relevant interests through the operation of NZX's markets and the settlement system.
