

The most notable storm of the month was, however, one which began as a severe tropical cyclone in the New Hebrides on the 25th. This cyclone moved in a south-south-easterly direction, and on the 28th had reached the neighbourhood of Cape Maria van Diemen. Thence it passed slowly down the east coast. Heavy rain began in the far North on the 27th and extended southwards, conditions being still unsettled at the end of the month. In North Auckland the falls were very heavy on the 27th, and there was some flooding. On the 28th and 29th the area of heaviest rain had moved to Hawke's Bay, and most of the rivers in that Province were in high flood. At Anawai, near Havelock North, 9.47 inches was recorded on the 29th, and many places had over 4 inches in 24 hours. Considerable damage was done by the floods, but ample warning had been given, and at a critical stage the rain moderated. Marlborough and North Canterbury also experienced heavy rains during this period, and few places escaped altogether.
