

of the male nude, and some cartoon illustrations. It is aimed at the homosexual adult and generally presents a reasonably balanced approach in its content."

Even so, the Police are concerned at the promotion of homosexual conduct included in the magazine and in their submission have recommended that the publication should be classified as indecent.

In its submission the Venus Shop Ltd., made a general statement which indicated that "it is important to note that the shop at which these items were purchased is a shop that caters for the adult population and entry is restricted to those of 18 years or over." With reference to this edition of Riding High, the Venus Shop Ltd. stated that "male homosexuality is not a crime. Indecencies between males are a crime . . . It is not unlawful for homosexuals to communicate."

It would appear to the Tribunal that the two problem areas, with reference to Riding High, Volume 8, is its availability to the public, and closely related to this, the problem of access to it by young persons. If Riding High is being sold to the general public through bookshops then the Tribunal would need to give consideration to classifying it indecent. But, if the magazine is published for and supplied to subscribers on a mailing list basis then it would appear that the publication should be classified with an age restriction only, as indecent in the hands of persons under the age of 18 years. This is a most difficult classification on which to rule. Summing up all aspects, the Tribunal classifies the magazine as indecent principally because the public good requires it.
