Social Welfare Reform

- (a) An increase in the age of entitlement to domestic purposes benefits for sole parents to 18 years;
- (b) The restriction of entitlement to domestic purposes benefits to one parent in cases of split custody;
- (c) An increase in the age of entitlement to invalids' and sickness benefits to 16 years;

- (g) The restriction of entitlement to benefits to one parent in cases of shared custody;
- (h) The reduction of the period during which a beneficiary may remain overseas without effecting eligibility for a benefit to 4 weeks;

- (j) The introduction of regulation-making empowering provisions relating to entitlement cards;
- (k) The reversion of the name of guaranteed retirement income to national superannuation;
- (l) The increase in the age of entitlement to guaranteed retirement income and veterans' pensions to 61 years on 1 April 1992, and the increase in the age of entitlement from 61 years to 65 years by 3-monthly increments every 6 months from 1 July 1993;

- (q) The repeal and revocation of the Rehabilitation Act 1941 and various related Acts, regulations, and orders.

Part II of the Bill makes amendments to the Inland Revenue Department Act 1974 to allow the Inland Revenue Department to supply to the Department of Social Welfare all or any of the following information that is held by the Inland Revenue Department in relation to a credit of tax under Part XIA of the Income Tax Act 1976 for the year ending with the 31st day of March 1991:

- (a) The names and addresses of persons in receipt of that credit of tax; and
- (b) The number of children to which that credit of tax relates; and
- (c) The amount of that credit of tax.

The purpose of the amendments is to facilitate the issuing of entitlement cards by the Department of Social Welfare.

Finance (Revenue)

This Bill amends the Customs Act 1966, the Tariff Act 1988, the Income Tax Act 1976 and the Stamp and Cheque Duties Amendment Act 1971 to give effect to Budget announcements in relation to:

- (a) The excise duty and other duty payable on alcohol, tobacco and motor spirits;
- (b) The application of the non-resident withholding tax provisions in respect of payments of interest by approved issuers; and
- (c) The provision of an approved issuer levy at the rate of 2 cents for each $1 of leviable value in respect of loan transactions registered with the Commission of Inland Revenue by persons who are approved issuers under new section 311B of the Income Tax Act 1976.

Health Reform

This Bill amends the Area Health Boards Act 1983 and Part II of the Social Security Act 1964.

Part I which amends the Area Health Boards Act 1983:

- (a) Reconstitutes each health board as a corporation sole (consisting of a single commissioner appointed by the Minister of Health), and makes the necessary consequential amendments;
- (b) Provides that each commissioner may, with the consent of the Minister of Health, appoint a deputy; and
- (c) Imposes two qualifications on the duty of the general manager to act independently in matters relating to decisions on individual employees.

Those qualifications are:

(i) That the State Services Commissioner may from time to time, after consultation with the Director-General of Health, promulgate conditions of employment to any general manager (not being conditions that are inconsistent with any terms and conditions of any applicable collective employment contract) and any such general manager shall ensure that the conditions of employment entered into with any person employed by the board are consistent with the conditions of employment so promulgated; and

(ii) That the State Services Commissioner may from time to time declare that all or any part of the conditions of employment fixed under a collective employment contract for persons employed in the Health Service are to be the actual conditions of employment.

It is expressly provided that nothing in the new subsections authorises the reduction of the individual conditions of employment of any person employed in the Health Service immediately before the commencement of the section.

Part II of the Bill amends the Social Security Act 1967, which is administered by the Department of Health, and relates to medical and hospital benefits and other related benefits.

Finance Bill (No. 2)

This Bill contains a number of miscellaneous provisions including amendments to the following legislation:

(a) Accident Compensation Act 1982

Under the present legislation, the Commissioner of Inland Revenue is required to pay the amount of any levy payable by a self-employed person when it first appears that the levy is due and payable, whether or not it has actually been paid. The new provisions provide that payments of levies by the Commissioner to the Corporation will, from 1 August 1991, occur when the levy payments are actually received by the Commissioner, and this will apply to levies from both employers and self-employed persons. Provision is made for appropriate adjustments when the Commissioner has already paid amounts in respect of any levy received after 1 August 1991, or where the amount of any levy is written off or reduced by an assessment or reassessment.

(b) Customs Act 1966

The amendment provides new definitions of the terms "documents" and "duty".

(c) Housing Corporation Act 1977

The amendments reconstitute the Housing Corporation of New Zealand, empower the Corporation to sell or dispose of its property and makes related amendments to the Housing Corporation of New Zealand.

(d) State-Owned Enterprises Act 1986

Major amendments relate to the Government Supply Brokerage Corporation (N.Z.) Ltd., the Forestry Corporation of New Zealand Limited, Government Computer Services Ltd., the National Provident Management Company Limited, and Timberlands West Coast Ltd.

(e) Adult Adoption Information Act 1985

The amendment makes it clear that fees can be prescribed to any matter under the Act and provides an interim scale of fees to cover the period until new fees regulations come into force.

(f) Animals Act 1967

The major amendments remove the Crown's obligation to compensate owners of cattle slaughtered because of infection with brucellosis or tuberculosis and compensation to be paid out of levies collected under the Meat Act 1981.

(g) Crown Minerals Act 1991

This amendment to section 108 of the Crown Minerals Act 1991 alters and reinstates, with minor amendments, subsection (1) which was omitted by Supplementary Order Paper No. 40. A consequential amendment is also made to section 387 of the Resource Management Act 1991.

(h) Dog Control and Hydatids Act 1982

These amendments dissolve the National Hydatids Council and provides that all the Council's rights, assets, and liabilities or debts become assets, liabilities and debts of the Minister of Agriculture.

(i) Education Act 1989

The Bill dissolves the Parent Advocacy Council and provides that the Council's rights, assets, and liabilities become those of the Minister of Education.

The Bill also repeals and replaces section 65 of the Education Act 1989, and makes certain other repeals. It has the effect of repealing provisions of that Act making it compulsory for teachers in kindergartens and State schools to be registered teachers, together with provisions that provide for certain exceptions. The opportunity has been taken to repeal some spent transitional provisions relating to teacher registration.

A further amendment removes a doubt as to whether or not Boards need the consent of the Minister of Education before borrowing sums denominated in New Zealand dollars. Such consent is not needed.

The Bill also amends section 67 (1) of the principal Act to take account of the fact that grants will no longer be designated as operational activities grants.

Section 79 of the principal Act (which relates to the payment of grants to Boards) is replaced with a redrafted section abolishing the distinction between operational activities grants and teacher salaries grants, and repeals sections 80 and 81 of the principal Act (which restrict, respectively, transfers between grants of those 2 types and the payment of teacher salaries from sources other than grants). Two points should be noted in relation to Boards that do not choose (under the amendments to section 91 of the principal Act intended to be effected by this Bill) to move to bulk funding of teacher salaries. First, such Boards will effectively continue to receive a grant that is the equivalent of an operational activities grant. Secondly, such Boards will continue to be restricted (by a new section 91 (9)) in their ability to pay teacher salaries from sources other than grants.

Section 91 of the Education Act 1989 is also amended to provide for the payment of teacher salaries during the transitional period before the general introduction of bulk funding of teacher salaries, and for the trialling of bulk funding.

The new section effects a number of amendments. It replaces the provisions relating to trialling of the bulk funding of teacher salaries with provisions enabling Boards to agree with the Minister of Education to move to bulk funding. It empowers the Minister to reduce in any year the grant paid to the Board of a school whose teachers continue to be paid directly by the Secretary of Education if in the year before the Board employed more teachers, or more expensive teachers, than the Secretary was required by law to pay. And it continues the restrictions (at present in section 81 of the principal Act) on the payment out of sources other than grants of the salaries of teachers at schools whose teachers continue to be paid directly by the Secretary.

(j) Employment Contracts Act 1991

This Part of the Bill amends a transitional provision relating to redundancy provisions which were in force at the commencement of the Act.

(k) Gaming and Lotteries Act 1977

The Bill amends the definitions of "game of chance", "gaming machine", "illegal prize competition", and "illegal game of chance". Other changes include allowing the Minister of Internal Affairs to issue or amend licences to conduct games of chance (renewable annually), to seek and consider the advice from such sources (including the Police) as the Minister considers relevant, a provision authorising all licences in force before the Bill to have been issued for a period expiring on 30 September 1991, and provision for the making of regulations in relation to the issue, amendment and renewal of such licences.

(l) Gaming Duties Act 1971

This Part of the Bill imposes a new duty for gaming machines.

(m) Income Tax Act 1976

This Part of the Bill amends the Income Tax Act 1976 to give effect to the announcements in the Budget relating to—

- (i) The abolition of the guaranteed retirement income earner surcharge with effect from 1 April 1992, and the change from guaranteed retirement income to national superannuation;
- (ii) The removal of the tax exemption for inter-corporate dividends, with general effect from 1 April 1992 and immediate effect from 8 p.m. on 30 July 1991 in relation to certain categories of fixed-rate shares;
- (iii) Changes in relation to the continuity and commonality of shareholding provisions that apply to the carrying forward of losses by companies and the offsetting of losses within groups of companies, insofar as those changes affect the 1991–92 income year; and
- (iv) The tightening up of certain anti-avoidance provisions relating to dealings in shares and to the imputation provisions of the Income Tax Act 1976.

(n) Land Transfer Act 1952

This amendment, which comes into force on 1 September 1991, has 2 effects. First, it replaces section 235 of the Land Transfer Act 1952 with a redrafted section making it clear that fees can be prescribed in relation to any matter under that Act, and any act done by a Registrar as the Registrar-General under any other enactment; and that in the prescription of the amount of any fee regard can be had to the costs and expenses incurred by the Department of Survey and Land Information in providing survey maintenance and control, and maintaining cadastral records, for the purposes of that Act.

Secondly, it deletes from other provisions of that Act specific references to the prescription and payment of fees.

(o) Maori Education Foundation Act 1961

This Part of the Bill repeals a spent permanent appropriation in section 20 of the Maori Education Foundation Act 1961.

(p) Meat Act 1981

The amendments prevent the Minister of Agriculture approving schemes to assist disease eradication in cattle and deer except on the recommendation of the Animal Health Board. In addition, the fixing of fees and levies cannot be made unless the Minister of Agriculture consults with the Animal Health Board and Federated Farmers.

(q) National Library Act 1965

These amendments in this Part align the provisions of the National Library Act with the provisions of the Public Finance Act 1989.

(r) Public Finance Act 1989

This Part of the Bill, modifies the application of Public Finance Act 1989 to:

- (i) The New Zealand Security Intelligence Service; and
- (ii) The Government Communications Security Bureau.

(s) Public Works Act 1981

The amendments in this Part require money from the sale of land be paid into a Crown Bank Account or Departmental Bank Account in accordance with the Public Finance Act 1989, rather than into the Public Account as presently provided.

(t) Transit New Zealand Act 1989

The major changes include changes to the amount of excise duty payable on motor spirits designated for roading purposes, and a reduction for a limited period of the amount of excise duty and goods and services tax payable on motor spirits that is refundable.

(u) Valuers Act 1948

The amendments in this Part provide for:

- (i) The payment of an annual registration fee by registered valuers;
- (ii) The removal of a registered valuer from the Registrar of Valuers if the annual registration fee is not paid;
- (iii) The amount of the fee to be set by regulation;
- (iv) The Valuers Registration Board to reimburse the Valuation Department and other Government agencies for costs incurred by them in the administration of the Valuers Act 1948.

(v) Veterinary Surgeons Act 1956

The amendments in this Part include provision for:

- (i) The Director-General of Agriculture and Fisheries to charge the Veterinary Surgeons Board for services provided by the employees of the Ministry;
- (ii) The Veterinary Surgeons Board to pay the remuneration and travelling allowances of its members out of its own funds;
- (iii) Fees for application for registration, for certificates of registration, for monetary penalties imposed in disciplinary cases (and for any additional costs incurred) and for examination fees be payable to the Board rather than to the Crown; and
- (iv) Widening the categories of payment that may be made into and of payments that made be made from the account formerly known as the Veterinary Surgeons Special Fund.

(w) New Zealand Planning Act 1982

This Part of the Bill dissolves the New Zealand Planning Council and repeals the New Zealand Planning Act 1982.

Summary of Bills Introduced

Privacy of Information

This Bill sets down a number of information privacy principles. These principles relate to the collection, use, and disclosure of, and access to, personal information (i.e., information about an identifiable individual) that is held by public or private sector agencies. In general, these principles do not create legal rights enforceable in a Court.

The Bill provides for the appointment of a Privacy Commissioner. The Commissioner, in conjunction with the Equal Opportunities Tribunal (re-named the Human Rights Tribunal), provides an enforcement mechanism for the information privacy principles.

The Privacy Commissioner would also have a more general role in relation to the protection of individual privacy. In this regard, the Commissioner takes over the general watchdog role that the Human Rights Commission currently performs under Part V of the Human Rights Commission Act 1977. The Privacy Commissioner's role includes the promotion of the information privacy principles, inquiring into enactments, laws, practices, and procedures that may infringe individual privacy, the monitoring of technological developments as they relate to individual privacy, and providing assistance and advice to agencies in relation to their obligations under the Bill.

Parts IV and V of the Bill relate to the information privacy principles that confer entitlements to access to personal information. They set out the grounds on which such access may be refused, and prescribe the procedures that agencies must follow in dealing with requests for such access. The provisions are modelled on Parts II and IV of the Official Information Act 1982.

Part VI provides for exemptions from the information privacy principles.

Part VII sets out the procedures for dealing with possible cases of interference with the privacy of individuals. The initial investigation is carried out by the Privacy Commissioner, either on a complaint or on his or her own initiative. After investigation, the Commissioner is to attempt to secure a settlement of the matter and obtain an assurance against repetition of the interference. If that fails, proceedings may be taken before the Human Rights Tribunal against the person alleged to have interfered with an individual's privacy. The Tribunal will have power to grant a number of remedies, including an award of damages.

Part VIII sets out the powers of the Commissioner in carrying out an investigation under Part VII of the Bill.

Part IX contains provisions relating to information matching. Information matching consists of the comparison of one set of personal information with another set of personal information.

The provisions of Part IX provide for the approval, by the Privacy Commissioner, of information matching programmes that would otherwise be a breach of the information privacy principles, or are prohibited by statute. Part IX also lays down certain requirements that will apply to information matching programmes (whether approved by the Privacy Commissioner or authorised by statute), except for programmes that are already authorised by statute.

Part X relates to unique identifiers. These are identification numbers or other identifiers that are assigned to an individual by an agency in order to identify the individual in dealings with the agency.

Part X provides for the making of regulations regulating the creation and use of unique identifiers. Such regulations may prescribe the procedures to be used by agencies in assigning unique identifiers to individuals, and may impose restrictions on their use.

Part XI makes special provision for certain law enforcement information. That Part incorporates, in a modified form, the Schedule to the Wanganui Computer Centre Act 1976 (which is repealed by the Bill). The purpose of Part XI is to authorise access by certain Government departments and local authorities to law enforcement information stored by certain Government departments on the Wanganui Computer.

Part XII contains various miscellaneous provisions relating to the operation of Parts II to VIII of the Bill. It also provides for the repeal of certain enactments, including the Wanganui Computer Centre Act 1976, and various provisions of the Area Health Boards Act 1983, the Health Act 1956, and the Hospitals Act 1957.

Part XIII contains a number of amendments to various enactments. These amendments fall into two categories—

- (a) Amendments that are consequential on the provisions of the Bill;
- (b) Amendments that authorise the exchange of information between Government agencies for the purposes of preventing and detecting fraud and abuse of the social welfare system.

Income Tax Amendment (No. 6)

This Bill amends the Income Tax Act 1976 in a number of respects.

The main areas of amendment are as follows:

- (a) A number of changes are made in the definition of the term "dividends" and related definitions in sections 3 to 4B of the Act, with numerous consequential and related amendments throughout the Bill. These changes largely follow the recommendations of the Valabh Committee.
- (b) The continuity and commonality of shareholding provisions in the Act (sections 188 and 191) that relate to the ability of companies to carry forward losses and set off losses between group members are repealed and replaced with new provisions that (i) are based on a standard continuity percentage of 66 percent, and (ii) now require 66 percent commonality of interest throughout an income year before the company loss offset provisions can be utilised.

The standard continuity percentage of 66 percent is also applied to the shareholding continuity requirements relating to imputation credit accounts and other accounts in sections 394E (1) (g), 394Zw (1) (f), and 394Zp (3) (d) of the Act.

- (c) New Part XIII A introduces the qualifying company regime recommended by the Valabh Committee in relation to closely-held companies. Under the regime, companies with (generally) 5 shareholders or less who meet the election and other requirements for becoming a qualifying company, will, together with their shareholders, be subject to a tax regime more similar to that applying to partnerships.

- (d) The new section 276 relates to companies left with insufficient assets to meet their tax liabilities, and makes directors, controlling shareholders, and in some circumstances other shareholders of such companies liable to pay the company's unsatisfied tax debts in certain circumstances where it appears that an arrangement was entered into for the purpose of leaving the company unable to satisfy its tax liabilities.
- (e) Clause 8 proposes a 2-year extension of the now limited inter-corporate dividend tax exemption in section 63 of the Act in the case of dividends payable on certain kinds of redeemable fixed-rate shares acquired before 8 p.m. on 30 July 1991.
- (f) Clause 2 proposes new definitions of the terms "local authority" and "local authority trading enterprise", and clause 36 amends the definition of the latter term in the Local Government Act 1974.

Finance (No. 4)

This Bill dissolves the New Zealand Export-Import Corporation and repeals the New Zealand Export-Import Corporation Act 1974. The Bill also proposes to amend the following Acts:

- (a) The Official Information Act 1982 and the Ombudsmen Act 1975 by defining related companies of State enterprises and making them subject to those Acts;
- (b) The Reserves Act 1977 by changing the financial year of the Reserves Board and other Boards appointed under the Act;
- (c) The State-Owned Enterprises Act 1986 by:
- (i) Empowering the Governor-General by Order in Council to add to the list of State enterprises in the First and Second Schedules to the principal Act;
 - (ii) Altering the content required and delivery times for draft statements of corporate intent of State enterprises, and delivery times of the completed statements to the shareholding Ministers;
 - (iii) Simplifying the procedure for the transfer of land to State enterprises;
 - (iv) Making consequential amendments to the Treaty of Waitangi Act 1975 and various sections of the State-Owned Enterprises Act 1986; and
 - (v) Providing that nothing in that Act prevents the exercise, in relation to a State enterprise named in the Second Schedule to the Act, of a power conferred by section 23 or section 24 or section 28 of the Act.

The Bill further seeks to amend:

- (d) The Transport Services Licensing Act 1989 by abolishing the Passenger Complaints Board; and
- (e) The Veterinary Surgeons Act 1956 by removing the Council of the New Zealand Veterinary Surgeons Association from involvement in the preliminary investigation of formal complaints against veterinary surgeons.
